Great hands-on activities that help to further explore the books!

Pairing a hands-on activity with a book after you read it is a great way for preschoolers to comprehend what happened in the story.

It provides an opportunity for you to discuss the lessons that the book is sharing with us, and helps children form a stronger memory of the story.

From art to color sorting to fine motor, the following are fun activities based on a popular picture book for you to experience along with your little ones!

We would love for you to share how you used these activities and any additional activities that you might have used to support the learning from your favorite
It's okay to be different colors!

How many different colors will you use to color the Giraffe and Zebra?
Scavenger Hunt

After reading the story, have some fun finding the answers to this scavenger hunt!

How many fish are learning to say No? _____________________

What color hair does the Extra Large person have? __________

Who has a flower in her hair? ________________

How many musical notes is the boy dancing to? ______________

What color are the Bunny’s ears? ______________________________

What is the yellow dog dreaming about? _________________________

How many teeth does the little boy have? __________

What color dress is the squirrel wearing? _______________________

Where is the boy eating his mac and cheese? ________________

How many scoops of ice cream are on the cone? __________

What color glasses is the girl wearing next to the lion? __________

Who is holding hands with the spotted dog? ________________
It's Okay to Be Different!

I have ________________________ hair.

I have ________________________ eyes.

My favorite food is ________________________.

My favorite color is ________________________.

My favorite book is ________________________.

I am happy when __________________________

______________________________.

I sometimes get sad when __________________________

______________________________.

Me

Encourage everyone
In the family complete a page!